Commentaire :

To sum up, the recording highlights
so the recording raises a critical issue.

How far can the ongoing security crisis be resolved by the government ?
Jusqu'où la crise sécuritaire en cours peut-elle être résolue par le gouvernement ?

How far does the ongoing crisis condemn , especially young people , to find a solution ?

Firstly it is a long-standing issue rooted in history and then who can act against this oppression? ,
to end A global issue: discrimination beyond the U.S

How the protest at the Mexico Olympic shook the world

To sum up, the recording highlights the difficulties for African Americans to live in a population shaped by racism and discrimination and the need to struggle against these behaviours .

This leads one to examine the following question : how far does the ongoing discrimination crisis condemn people , especially African people , to be careful ?

Firstly this situation is not current , it's a former blight in USA without ending , But then who can act against the oppression

Finally the USA is not alone because in the whole world there are discriminations and racism against a part of the population .

I)

This event is slightly evoked in the recording because the protest in Mexico is in the same way as Berlin Olympic Games , particularly the four winning of Jesse Owens and his podium in front of Hitler . When he returned in USA in 1936 , American Olympic Comitee withdraw Owens and gave up the celebration of his victory . That's to say that this oppression against black people is not new .

And It's possible to think about several same problem as Rosa park , and more currently the killing of George Floyd by policeman ,

II)

But who can act against this oppression ? In sport the athlete as doc and the first part showed but also population themselves , in 2020 after the killing of George Floyd the movement Black Lives Matter has lived again . In Usa but finally in the whole World, there were so many demonstrations to protest against the condition of living , and demanded more security for the citizen ,more respect for the population . So in this way the government has a critical place . But the decisions are not only in this way . One can think about the Jim Crow Law , to regulate Black people in their movement , they can't go to buses , school shops . Even if Barack Obama took this problem because he was the first black president in the USA but obviously the African american population has a place in his policy .
